

As the division of Berlin following the Cold War fades into history, the German capital is growing more self confident as a great European metropolis. Fastpaced, offbeat, creative.... anything but the ordinary: Berlin is constantly reinventing itself. It has always been a bolthole for unconventional types and an exciting cultural challenge for its many enamoured visitors. Discover your own Berlin for yourself.

AIRPORT TO CITY

TULIP INN FRIEDRICHSHAIN

★★★

41 Gurtelstrasse, Berlin 10247

The Friedrichshain is near the Alexanderplatz in the east side of the city, close to the metro and Frankfurter Allee station but clients should note that train lines run close to the building. The façade and interior have a French brasserie feel to them and the rooms are simply and tastefully decorated. The hotel has a small fitness room, sauna and you can use the self service bar on the third floor.

PARK INN ALEXANDERPLATZ

Alexanderplatz, Berlin 10178

The Park Inn is in the historical heart of the old east part of the city, at the commercial hub that is Alexanderplatz just 2 minutes from the metro station of the same name, giving easy access to the rest of the city. The hotel is a large modern development and the rooms are bright and stylish. Choose from 2 restaurants and 2 bars (one on the 37th floor with a casino) as well as the hotel's sauna, massage and solarium.

RADISSON SAS BERLIN

★★★★★

Karl-Liebknecht Strasse, Berlin 10178

Opened in March 2004, the Radisson's location could hardly be more central: beside City Hall and the Berlin Cathedral and a couple of hundred metres from Unter den Linden. The 427 rooms are chic and smart and offer full air conditioning, LCD flat screens and high quality furnishings. As well as having the world's largest cylindrical aquarium at 25m, the hotel offers a Wellness Centre with massage, 'torrent' and 'waterfall' showers, solarium, sauna, steam bath, pool and gym.

HAMBURG

Europe's second largest port and Germany's wealthiest city, Hamburg welcomes you to a worldly and cosmopolitan place, a hub of media and fashion as well as home to one of Europe's most famous red-light districts. Much of the city was destroyed in the Great Fire of 1842 or in WWII, and in the rebuilding the planners emphasized a rural feel, giving two-thirds over to parks, lakes and tree-lined canals. There is a strong tradition of unashamed consumerism (shopping, in other words) so make sure you buy, buy before you say bye-bye!

AIRPORT TO CITY

Hamburg Airport is 10km north of the city and an airport express bus runs to the main station every 15-30 mins.

FRANKFURT

Frankfurt is an old city with typically German half timbered houses and some Roman remains, contrasting sharply with the modern banking centre including Europe's tallest building. On the south bank of the river is Sachsenhausen, home of many National museums and at the weekend the scene of a huge riverside flea market. Famous for its great bars and jazz clubs, don't miss the Apfelwoi Kellers - the traditional German hostellers serving the local drink and the Frankfurt 'Green Sauce'.

MONOPOL

11-13, Mannheimer Strasse Frankfurt 60329

Conveniently located adjacent to the main railway station, the Monopol Hotel provides modern facilities combined with the charm & hospitality of the Old World. The hotel's restaurant & cocktail lounge welcome you to unwind after a long day in Frankfurt's busy bustle.

MUNICH

With many parks, noticeably the huge English Garden, it is easy to forget that city life is going on all around. No visit to Munich is complete without experiencing the old town's Hofbräuhaus, the famous drinking hall, where many friendships are formed even if few are remembered. The Bohemian quarter in Schwabing, to the north of the city, is where the nightlife happens, with plenty of bars, cafés, clubs, discotheques and restaurants. There is a frequent service to Munich with Aer Lingus.

KURPFALZ HOTEL

121, Schwanthalerstrasse, Munich 80339

In the heart of Munich, the Kurpfalz hotel is situated next to the fairgrounds and the Oktoberfestwiese. This small hotel is in a quiet location and provides a homely stay in a friendly atmosphere.
